

Iceberg Vodka Corporation begins new decade with celebratory management changes

Canadian Iceberg Vodka CEO, David Meyers, began the new year with the announcement of Steve Ciccolini's promotion to the position of President of Iceberg Vodka Corporation.

"Steve joined Iceberg Vodka seven years ago in 2013 and has consistently demonstrated great leadership skills and effectiveness within our management team. This is recognition of the importance of Steve to our organization, his impact on the business, and his ability to successfully take on a broad range of responsibilities," shares Meyers.

Rachel Starkman, Director of Marketing & Sales, will now become responsible for all Canadian sales, adding in the Atlantic provinces, but excluding Newfoundland, in addition to her marketing role on the Iceberg brand. Starkman will now report to Ciccolini, along with Robin Saxena, Accounting Manager, and Elizabeth Marion-Bof, Accounting and Operations Manager (currently on maternity leave).

Steve will continue to report to Meyers as Chief Executive Officer of the Corporation.
