

Loch Lomond unveils single cask bottling exclusive to World Duty Free

From December, 256 bottles of the Single Cask 748 Loch Lomond 2009 edition will be available to purchase at Avolta's World Duty Free stores in Heathrow, Edinburgh and Glasgow airports

Independent distiller, Loch Lomond Group has partnered with World Duty Free, an Avolta company, to launch an exclusive single cask bottling that is available at select UK stores operated by the retailer.

From December, 256 bottles of the Single Cask 748 Loch Lomond 2009 edition will be available to purchase at Avolta's World Duty Free stores in Heathrow, Edinburgh and Glasgow airports.

Priced at £95.99 ($US120), the single malt has an ABV of 58.7% and was aged in a single refill American oak hogshead cask. On the nose, notes of juicy pear and sweet vanilla cream intermingle with fresh apricot and a hint of zesty lemon peel. The whisky offers a taste of candied ginger and toffee apple before a warm oak spiced finish with orange juice.

Luke Maga, Loch Lomond Group Managing Director - Global Travel Retail, said: "We are delighted to partner with World Duty Free to offer this exclusive Loch Lomond single cask bottling at three of the UK's top airports. Exclusive formats like this resonate strongly with travel retail consumers who seek unique, collectible whiskies and single cask bottlings are always popular with whisky connoisseurs, so we are confident this edition will be a hit with travellers looking for something special during the festive period."

Earlier this year, Loch Lomond Distillery won "The Most Awarded Distillery" at the globally renowned San Francisco World Spirits Competition 2023, picking up multiple Double Gold and Gold Awards for its collection of malt whisky brands.
