To travelers on Air Astana, Tito's Handmade Vodka (750-milliliter) is now available for duty free purchase

Travelers on Air Astana, the national flag carrier of the Republic of Kazakhstan, can now bring a taste of Texas to their destination – or home with them. As of January 1, Tito's Handmade Vodka (750-milliliter) is now available for duty free purchase on the airline's growing number of international and domestic flights, marking the brand's first onboard travel retail listing in the region.

To introduce passengers to "America's Original Craft Vodka," Tito's is prominently featured in this month's in-flight magazine on the carrier. This feature was made possible through Kazakhstan's Grand Duty Free, in partnership with High Source Korea, which represents Tito's in South Korea.

John McDonnell, Managing Director – International, Tito's comments: "Consumers in this region certainly know and appreciate authentic high-quality vodka and it's a true testament to our brand that Air Astana would choose to include Tito's as one of their on-board duty free options."

Operating one of the youngest fleets in the region, Air Astana services 64 domestic and international routes from its main hub in Almaty.

In the domestic Kazakhstan market, Tito's Handmade Vodka is available through Logistock LLP distributors.
