William Grant & Sons has launched its first permanent installation in the Arrivals terminal of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj International Airport, further strengthening its footprint in one of India's busiest travel hubs.

Located within the newly renovated and expanded Arrivals store, the dedicated space brings to life the malts portfolio, Glenfiddich, The Balvenie, and Monkey Shoulder. This latest launch reinforces William Grant & Sons' presence at Mumbai Airport, complementing its existing showcase in the Departures terminal.

Developed in partnership with long-term collaborator Osprey Duty Free, the new permanent Malt area was officially inaugurated on Sunday, April 6, in the presence of Rufus Parkinson, Regional Managing Director - Global Travel Retail at William Grant & Sons; Damian Cooper, Regional Director - Global Travel Retail at William Grant & Sons; Sheetal Kachroo - Buying Head at Osprey Duty Free, and Sumit Chatterjee - Head of Operations at Osprey Duty Free.

Rufus Parkinson commented, “This new malt-dedicated space in Arrivals is another step forward in our partnership with Osprey Duty Free and our commitment to engaging travelers throughout their airport journey.

“With an established presence in Departures and now a premium, permanent showcase in Arrivals, we are well-positioned to offer Indian and international shoppers a seamless and elevated experience.”

With Monkey Shoulder’s growing popularity and the strength of Glenfiddich and The Balvenie, William Grant & Sons continues to build on its legacy in India, connecting with consumers through innovation, quality, and a deep-rooted Scottish heritage.
