

Opening of specialty retailers at Nashville Airport reflects record growth

The Galleria in Concourse A/B offers aisles of premium spirits, tobacco, cosmetics, fashions, and sweet treats

Seven specialty retail shops are now open at Nashville International Airport, offering fliers more to discover on their journey. The new arrivals reflect the airport's record growth in domestic and international travel with the first duty free duty paid shopping destination; plus, Tennessee originals such as the Goo Goo Shop, Musicians Hall of Fame and Museum, and Tennessee Whiskey Company store.

"With the debut of our duty free duty paid shopping experience and even more local offerings, these specialty retailers are bringing a new level of passenger service to our program at BNA," says Matt Jennings, Vice President at Fraport Tennessee. "The new shops are also landing in time for the upcoming opening of the state-of-the-art International Arrivals Terminal.

"We are committed to building a program that will delight and excite millions of visitors each year," adds Jennings. "Most new shops are locally owned and operated through innovative partnerships, bringing more Tennessee flair and Music City hospitality to the airport." In the last 18 months, more than 25 new units have opened.

Passengers will find the latest retail arrivals in Concourse A/B, Concourse B, and Concourse D. Operating hours are 8 a.m. until the last departure of the day. The new shops include:
