TFWA President Erik Juul-Mortensen said: "The partnership between TFWA and Singapore Airlines will allow us to work alongside an airline which is so important to the region, whilst also providing a preferred rate for our industry partners joining us in Singapore. Singapore Airlines is one of the most highly-regarded airlines in the world and currently holds the achievement of being the world's most awarded airline.

"We trust that this offer, along with the preferential hotel rates available to delegates at the Marina Bay Sands Hotel, will provide support to those companies joining us in Singapore for TFWA Asia Pacific Live. Both of these partnerships are fitting examples of how brands and organizations across the world are coming together to facilitate the industry's continuing recovery."
