

Dubai ready to reopen its doors to international visitors

As Dubai prepares to reopen its doors to receive international visitors, the Dubai Department of Tourism and Commerce Marketing has confirmed the emirate's commitment to health and safety.

Dubai Tourism said that the emirate has adopted a set of precautionary measures at public and tourist facilities, in preparation for the gradual lifting of restrictions, as well as the emirate's hotels that are preparing to receive guests again.

The strict preventive measures are "in line with the highest international standards to establish the position of Dubai as one of the safest and safest destinations in the region", Dubai Tourism was quoted as saying in Gulf News.

In light of the effective management of the Emirate of Dubai to contain the global pandemic and continue its efforts to control the spread of COVID-19, the city is taking carefully studied measures and procedures to reopen its various economic sectors in stages, while maintaining its commitment to ensure the public safety of the city's residents and visitors, it said.

In addition to emphasizing the importance of adhering to physical distancing and wearing masks to combat the virus, Dubai has issued detailed instructions for reopening commercial activities for various government agencies and private companies, including the hospitality sector, while emphasizing the importance of maintaining the good reputation enjoyed by the city's hotels, to protect the health and safety of its people at all times.
